

PMP and PMF Course Authors

These courses were immediately recognized by governments, universities, and professional associations, due to the reputation of the primary author, innovative PM experiences he has and the collaborative efforts from the supporting authors, architects, and developers.

The core content of the NexLev courses has been taught since 2003 and has evolved annually to align with advancements of Project Management best practices (incorporates innovative new ways to manage projects in today's demanding and diverse business environments). The content includes input and experiences from multiple expert practitioners in the fields of Project Management, supervision, engineering, business management and is delivered in an interactive, innovative professional online approach.

The PM knowledge objectives, tools, content, materials, techniques, and approach were designed by multiple PM experts, lead by Jason Tratch who is:

- recognized as a leading global expert in Management Systems and Project Management. He teaches at University Masters Courses and Colleges. He speaks regularly at conferences, seminars and Trade Delegations. Mr. Tratch has direct work experience in: environment, construction, mining, education, health, financials, technology, agriculture, manufacturing, biotechnology, and real estate. Examples of cultural environments also worked in include: extreme remote fieldwork, first nations and multicultural, technology R&D, government, private, university, and nonprofit.
- certified in Market Entry Strategy (FITT), Project Management (PMP), Quality Management (ISO 9000 Series), Auditing (ISO 9000), Process Management (Six Sigma), Construction (Journeyman Carpenter), Mechanics (John Deer University) and Wastewater Collection & Treatment (Level 2 Certification). Mr. Tratch holds degrees in both Biology (B.Sc.) and Agriculture (Deans List) (B.S.A.) and is a certified Professional Agrologist (P.Ag.).
- Mr. Tratch is active in the PM community and an active blogger, for more details or to view additional PM material, please visit his blog at: www.jasontratch.com
- course content was first devolved over a decade ago but has annually improved (new feedback, approaches, improvements) based on student feedback, market, business change and advancement. The content and instructor have thus been recognized, approved, certified and sold through multiple companies across Canada, Universities, Colleges, Institutions, Associations
- certified and backed by Project Management Institute (PMI) as well as Canadian Construction Association (CCA)